Florence Eastman Post Legionnaires and their guests, said that Americans should all take deep pride in the United States. This country, he stated, furnishes a better life for its people than any other in the history of the world. He said that, at the same time, no nation has been so generous in its help to other less fortunate countries. The poor, he stated, have been a fact since Biblical times, and no other nation has been so concerned with aiding its poor, educating them and supporting them with financial help. Contrast this unique record with that of Iron Curtain countries, he said. Having been there and seen the conditions, he stated that the gathering would not believe the contrast. There, he said, the country is run by an intellectual elite and they have all of the luxuries of the ruling class. "The people", he said, "have nothing." Yet, every day the newspapers of this country

In a second award, Mrs. George (Anna) Bradley was presented a citation for outstanding service to the Legion Post. Mrs. Bradley is reporter for the New Bedford Standard Times. In presenting the citation, John Raphael extended his personal thanks for the attention that she has always given to activities of the Post.

Post members cooked and served the dinner of corned beef and cabbage. The occasion was the American Legion's 51st anniversary. Seated at the head table were George Berry, law and order officer for the 10th District; Post Commander Elmer Sylvia, Selectman Haley, Ernest Montrond, State Vice-Commander; James Comanay, service officer in Providence;

SHOW AND TELL DAY AT WOMAN'S CLUB

On Thursday, March 19th, the members of the Mattapoissett Woman's Club brought back, after three years' absence, their popular "Show and Tell Day." On display throughout the day was the handwork of many of the club members - embroidery, crewel work, stenciling, braided rugs, knitting, ceramics, caning, a delicate "cut-out" lampshade, a unique chandelier of knotted string - all were among the items created by the women; plus a number of items turned out by the Arts and Crafts Group under the leadership of Mrs. Thomas Dunn. Pencil sketches and oils were shown by some of the artists in the club. This display was under the direction of Fine Arts co-chairmen, Mrs. Ernest Horrocks and Mrs. Arthur Knox. The Antique Study Group, with Mrs. Edward Scholter

Archibald Lammey, Mrs. Edward McCarthy and Mrs. Norman Atkinson assisting.

At 10:30 Mrs. Harlan Broadwater, program chairman and coordinator of the day's activities, introduced Mrs. Jack Bills who represented the story hours sponsored on Saturday mornings at the town library by the Woman's Club, and who read a child's story to 3 very small guests who were later watched over and entertained in another room by Mrs. Evelyn Haslam.

Club president, Mrs. Albert Furnans, then called to order the short business meeting with the invocation given by Mrs. Charles Smith, and a special address by the visiting Third District Director of the State Federation, Mrs. Lawrence Terry. The president welcomed the members and members' guests, and visitors from Women's Clubs in New Bedford, Middleboro, Plymouth, Rochester, Wareham, Taunton, Dartmouth, Assonet and the Third District Presidents' Club. As chairman of the nominating committee, Mrs. Clarence Fountain read the proposed slate of officers for the club for the 1970-1971 season. They are: Mrs. Albert Furnans, president; Mrs. George King, first vice-president; Mrs. Philip Murray, second vice-president; Mrs. Arthur Knox, recording secretary; Mrs. Ralph Ashworth, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Manuel Roza, treasurer; Mrs. Clarence Fountain, director for 1 year; Miss Jessie Peacock, director for 2 years; and Mrs. Harold Woodcock, director for 3 years.

At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. George King was the capable commentator for a style show of "originals" - clothes made and modeled by club members. At the piano while the models walked down the center aisle was Mrs. Louis Corey, and the seamstresses taking part were: Mmes. Harlan Broadwater, Victor Vogel, Thomas Dunn, Charles Whalen and Mrs. Whalen's daughter, Christine; Norman Atkinson, J. Louis Roberts, James Henderson, James Harris, Leonard Burnham, Lawrence Terry and Albert Furnans. Three very small models were Miss Ellen Scholter modeling 2 dresses made by her mother, Mrs. Edward Scholter; and Meg Peccini and Lori-Beth Bungert, cousins, who modeled identical dresses made by their mothers, Mrs. Alfred Peccini and Mrs. James Bungert.

Literature chairman, Mrs. Linwood Lewis, was then called upon to introduce several members of her group. Mrs. Ralph Ashworth presented her amusing review of the book, "Mr. Griffith and Me", by Lillian Gish. Mrs. Charles Smith reviewed the very thought-provoking book, "Soul Sister" by Grace Halsell. Also, as a member of the literature group, Miss Lydia LeBaron Walker performed in an 1870 costume loaned to her by the costume museum in Peterboro, New Hampshire an historical monologue. entitled "The Feminist", a woman campaigning for women's rights.

Mrs. Mary Hillman catered a delicious luncheon with Mrs. Benjamin Brintnall and Mrs. J. Louis Roberts co-chairmen in charge of arrangements. Also serving on the luncheon committee were Mrs. Winthrop Leonard, Mrs. Joseph Holt, Mrs. Merrill Walker, Mrs. Charles Whalen, Mrs. Kenneth Wood, Mrs. Harold Woodcock, Mrs. F. L. Dixon Yard and Mrs. Lawrence Young. Adding a welcome touch of spring were the colorful flower centerpieces which were arranged by Mrs. Victor Twiraga.

The final activity on the program was the singing of songs by a group of 11 club members who joined together specifically for "Show and Tell Day". Mrs. Philip Murray directed and Mrs. James Hinman accompanied the group on the piano as they sang "Salutation," "The Orchestra," "Make Believe", and "This Land is Your Land". First sopranos were Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Dixon Yard and Mrs. George Kilpatrick. Second sopranos were Mrs. James Henderson, Mrs. Alfred Peccini, Mrs. Anthony Sylvia and Mrs. Elson Mellor. Singing alto were Mrs. Thomas Renahan, Mrs. Charles Boys, Mrs. George Bradley and Mrs. Norman Atkinson. Following their final selection, the group led the audience in singing "The Mattapoissett Hymn", the words written years ago by Rev. C. Julian Tuthill, a former pastor of the Mattapoissett Congregational Church, to the tune of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic".

The day's activities were brought to a close by Mrs. Broadwater who thanked everyone for their cooperation, a very necessary ingredient in making a success of such a large undertaking as "Show and Tell Day".

Letters to The Editor

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

During the past few weeks we have read letters expressing a variety of viewpoints on the subject of aerial spraying of "safe pesticides" to control mosquitoes. The letter of the Vaitses in the March 11, 1970, issue points up a lack of understanding that is still widespread enough to cause me great concern. We cannot afford the luxury of sneering and sniping at conservationists and ecologists. We must be mature enough to open our eyes and understand the lessons that are being taught.

Admittedly, when insecticides were first developed, they were embraced as the cure-all for many problems and were widely and indiscriminately used. But now that we have added to our knowledge and learned from often bitter experience that they are not the perfect, no-problem solution, should we emulate ostriches and try to ignore our advanced knowledge, or shall we be big enough to admit that perhaps we have made mistakes through our use of them and that we should change our attitudes?

It is only too easy to sound over-dramatic in stating the problem. It comes down to a few very simple, basic facts. We are poisoning ourselves, our food, the air we breathe, the water and the soil, as well as the wildlife. Every small amount counts, for the poisonous properties of "hard" pesticides do not disappear; to quote from Professor Wallace Stegner's "Conservation = Survival": "they concentrate in living forms, moving from food to feeder, prey to predator, accumulating as they go".

In implying an all-out battle with Nature, and stating that Nature is "an amalgamation of blind forces constantly warring on each other and on us, --" the Vaitses are ignoring the fact that Nature is highly ordered, with many and definite laws which we and the other creatures sharing this planet break at our peril. A system of checks and balances helps to make up these complex laws. When the balance of Nature is upset, by natural or artificial means, the consequences can be serious and far-reaching. Rather than trying to fight Nature to a standstill, we should learn to understand and work with Nature.

My parents well remember the days of the WPA, when the government, seeking at least a partial answer? It would also help if each one of us will dispose of trash that could hold water, and empty outside containers of water in which mosquitoes can breed.

And these wetlands, or swampholes as the Vaitses contemptuously dismiss them, play an all-important role in the chain of life. Growing here are plant life and microscopic organisms which are eaten by minnows and other small marine creatures, which in turn are eaten by larger fish and on and on to the fish that we enjoy catching, and which also form an important part of our diet and industry -- and isn't the fishing industry in enough trouble without striking it another blow by eliminating wetlands? Many of the wetland areas may seem to be too small to matter, but they are worth saving; twenty one-acre sites equal one 20 acre area.

aerial spraying in the Town of Mattapoisett. I, for one, know that I am going to be chewed by mosquitoes even if we do spray -- and the further damage done by the insecticides loosed by such spraying will cause irreparable harm to many forms of life.

Screened porches and patios are still a necessity to comfort, except in places where the wind is always blowing. So this condition still prevails despite years of mosquito spraying. Think back: except for a few days after each aerial spraying during the past years, were we not plagued by mosquitoes just as much as before?

The claim that only a few dead birds were found after the last spraying is no proof that pesticides are not harmful to them. Birds no doubt have fallen dead in many spots not found by humans and thus missed the tally. And what of the long-range effects -- only one of which is the mortal damage to birds in the embryonic state. The osprey had been all but wiped out because of the harmful effect of DDT on its eggs, and the same is happening to the bald eagle. How many ospreys have we seen in recent years? And what of the trim, white terns, only a few years ago seen here in large flocks? They have disappeared from the local scene. Could the cause be the same or similar?

The bird population as a whole has been greatly depleted by the effects of various forms of poison. Many of the birds are insect eaters. Left alone, they, along with beneficial cannibal insects, provide a constant check on harmful insects, as opposed to the short-lived result of the killing of a few mosquitoes immediately after spraying.

I do not suggest that we should retreat from the battle to control mosquitoes. I do suggest that the spraying that has been done in the past and that is proposed for the future is not the answer. We know the dangers of DDT. We need to know more about the newer pesticides before we take the chance of using them and running the very serious risk of further contamination.

BATTLE OF THE BUGS (OR BIG WORDS?)
(In the manner of Shakespeare)

To spray or not to spray: that is the question!

Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The stings and itching of mosquito hordes
Or, to take arms against a sea of pests
And by spraying end them? To die: to breed
No more: and by spraying we end
The stings and the thousand itchings
That flesh is heir to. 'Tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wished. Ah, but wait!
What might befall our ecology? What of the Birds of the air, and fish of the streams and sea?

They gorge upon millions of poisoned insects.
What of the busy bee that flits from clover
to clover

Gathering poisoned nectar to carry back to the hive?

What manner of reason is there in feeding
Our songbirds that they may survive the winter,

Only to poison their natural food in the Spring?

In the foreseeable future all crops could fail:

There would be no fish in the sea, no beasts
In the field. The Conservationists and

Conn. Students to Visit

ANNUAL BAND EXCHANGE WEEKEND

Cromwell, Connecticut's High School Band will be visiting the tri-town area the first weekend in April as part of the annual Old Rochester Regional High School Band Exchange program. The music students, with their director and chaperones, will be arriving at noon on Friday, April 3rd, and will remain until Sunday afternoon, April 5th. Many area families will be extending personal hospitality to their Connecticut neighbors, having volunteered to serve as exchange weekend hosts.

Much of the weekend will be devoted to rehearsals for the special Saturday evening Band Concert in Bristol Auditorium, but appropriate events are being arranged to entertain the visitors. For the purpose of discussing these arrangements, and formulating definite plans, FORAM President, Mr. Charles B. Dunn, has scheduled a meeting at his Point Connett home on Wednesday evening, March 25th, at 8:00 P.M. All interested persons, particularly parents

GRANGE MEETING

Mattapoisett Grange held its bi-monthly meeting last Thursday night with guests from Acushnet, South Middleboro, Marion, East Freetown and Rochester. Pomona executive committee member Gilbert Collins was the honored guest, representing Sippican Pomona. Mr. Collins announced the Pomona activities for the April 4th meeting being held with Marion Grange. He urged the members to come and enjoy the fellowship of the Pomona. Robert Ouellette, Pomona master, also spoke of the Pomona meeting.

It was voted to let the Square Riggers Dance Club have the use of the hall for their get-to-gether and meeting on April 4th, May 23rd and June 27th.

The worthy patron of the Junior Grange, Robert Ouellette, presented the worthy master a check of appreciation to the Subordinate Meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walker, members agreed that, although the response from potential exhibitors has been limited, a concentrated effort would be made to seek more items for exhibit. Special feature sections of the museum will include Indian artifacts, photographs, old coins and glassware. Any person wishing to lend these or other articles for exhibition may contact Mrs. James Gurney, president, or any member of the society.

In other business, a report of recommendations from Mrs. Walker, chairman of the honorary members committee, was accepted. Those being awarded honorary memberships in the Rochester Historical Society will be notified in the near future.

Efforts are being made to complete date plaques for two more Rochester homes. Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Vaughan and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Gifford have submitted sufficient evidence to the society that their respective residences are well over 200 years old.

The next meeting of the Rochester Historical Society will be held tonight at 8 P.M. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Deakin. All interested persons are invited.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Will Mattapoisett suffer from the water shortages which have plagued our neighboring towns? The danger is great! Since the Town's last new well and pumping station was completed in 1953 (17 years ago), the number of water services have increased from 1060 to 1929. During the same period the annual water consumption has increased from 58,068,066 gallons to a high of 139,705,540. The highest one-day demand of 931,800 gallons almost equals the total pumping capacity. The following is an extracted paragraph from a letter received from the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, dated January 28, 1970, and signed by Mr. John C. Collins, Director, Division of Environmental Health: "The Department of Public Health is aware that your peak consumption is rapidly approaching your maximum supply capabilities and shares your opinion that additional sources of supply are urgently needed."

Because of the recent growth of the town, the demand for water has been phenomenal and the future outlook is alarming. We must be prepared to furnish the demands of a new regional school, new homes and businesses under construction or to be built in the vicinity of present water lines. In addition, we must consider the needs of those areas not now served, such as Mattapoisett Neck beyond Bayside Meadows, Brandt Island area and the Northwestern Tinkhamtown area. We have but two active pumping stations, one of which (built in 1926) is of low yield, particularly during dry periods, when the water table is low and the need is the greatest. Were we to lose the larger pumping station for even a day during the summer months, we could not keep up to the demand, even with water restrictions. The only possible source of outside help would be from the Town of Fairhaven, and their own critical water situation is well known.

We, because of the seriousness of the situation as outlined above, urge every voter in the town to give most careful consideration to Article Number 21 as it appears in the Annual Town Meeting Warrant. Even with an affirmative vote we can not expect relief from the present situation until well

Voyage of The Manta

The last complete whaling venture from the port of New Bedford, Mass.

Sunday, August 2nd - Just 3 months today since we sailed. Well, we got the main'sle up this morning and got headed it the right direction. Then whale was sighted. Boats were lowered at 11:00, back at 2:00. Lar-board boat got 1 whale. Biggest one yet. Heave and slip. Got through at 7:30. Supper at 8:30. I just turned in. It is now about 9:30 or later and I sneaked down at that. I've got nothing to do now until 4:30 in the morning. Great life! Nice way to spend the summer! Well, I expect to spend Sunday, the 16th, a great deal different. Two bombs were shot into this whale. If we only knew where we are? How far away from New Bedford? But we can't find out a thing. Captain gave Dean a plug of tobacco and told him it would have to last 2 weeks. Not very encouraging, is it? Oh, well it can't last forever.

Monday, August 3rd - We only used to get beans once in a great while, sometimes we would not get them for 2 weeks. Now we get them twice a day sometimes. Captain gave boys a treat this morning. Gave them all a half plug of tobacco. Says that's the last. Very hot today and calm. Headed right but it doesn't mean a thing. I won't think we're headed home until they start stowing away the lances, harpoons, tubs, line, etc. We may be out another month yet. We signed up for 4 months. Oil Haliot!! Got this whale almost finished. Each one we get now comes easier. Boys will finish this one tonight and have the decks all washed down by sunrise. Feel fine today. I was told no one had anything on me when it came to cutting blubber.

Tuesday, August 4th - Had a good wash last night. Almost a bath; arms, legs and a good shampoo. Then Jimmy combed my hair and I felt like a new man. Felt tired, ill and discouraged today, feeling a little better now. Haven't sighted any whales today. Hope we don't see anymore. Heard Captain would go back Sunday, whale or no whales. Found Powers' clothes full of maggots. RAIN.

Wednesday, August 5th - Whales sighted 6:15. Hoist and swing. Neither boat got near them. Thank God! Everybody glad. Still sailing toward New Bedford. Big rain-storm this morning. Heavy wind and rain. Went straight across, not down. The wind whistled through my whiskers.

Thursday, August 6th - Here it is the sixth and we are just as far away from home as ever. More rain. All kinds of rumors going around ship as to going home. Every move is watched and commented on. Steady rain all morning. I don't like to keep writing how homesick I am, but I just can't help it. How I long to get back. I've thought of home so much. I've worn it threadbare, can't get any more pleasure from it. Whales sighted. Hoist and swing. Neither boat got fast. They were gone about 3 hours. I am not blue today but I have longed for home more today than at any other time. If I only knew where we are, if we are getting nearer or not. Whales sighted again about 4 miles off. Did not lower.

Friday, August 7th - Nice breeze this morning. Headed N.E. with all sail set. Cold, wore heavy underwear, wool jersey, wool sweater, vest, pants, jumper and then sheepskin coat to go to masthead. Wind failed, took in main'sle, seems as if God has forgotten us out here. Whale sighted 1:30. Hazy and foggy. Well, I don't know how to figure this thing out. We are now going south. I suppose we will stay out here till the ship is full if it takes till October. If I only knew when we were going back I could count the days as they go by and thank God that I was one day nearer home; but what's the use. I counted the days till the 4th of July, then till the 1st of August, then expected to make a start for home. There's no signs of leaving yet. Then Lopes said we would go home in a week, whales or no whales; we are still here and the week is up. It's awful just to lay here and long for home with no idea as to when we will get there or start. Well, I'm giving it one more try. Going to wait for Monday and see if anything happens then. You see Sunday is the 9th and the Old Man has never stayed out after the 9th, he usually gets back the last of July or the first week in August, whether he has a load or not. I think we have only 3 or 4 more empty casks on board. We have 40 full ones now and have caught 30 whales. I wonder if you wonder where I am and what I'm doing and thinking about.

Saturday, August 8th - Had a chat with the 3rd Mate this morning. He's made two trips on here before. The first time he got back the 20th of August, the second time, the 29th of August. So I've made up my mind we're out here till the last of this month. And I wanted to get back for Sunday, the 16th, so bad. When we go back aft to work we sneak a look at the chart and then try to pick out where we are on my map. But we can't get near enough to the Captain's chart to pick out a town or mark to go by. Headed south again, no wind. This was supposed to be the rough month. With the exception of a couple of rain storms we have had perfect weather. We are now laying in a dead calm. Scraping barnacles from sides of ship again. Whales sighted. HOT. Not a ripple in the water. Ocean is like a minnow. Went through tide rip today. Milk bottles from N. V. floating. Also, pineapples, bottles, cans and all kinds of refuse. Boys are planning to eat next Saturday's supper ashore. Rumors going around that the Captain was heard to remark, "Come on, blow up, blow up, so we can get out of here." All kinds of rumors and we hang on every word and twist it around so as to make it sound as if we were going home. Oh, the suspense of it, the hopeless yearning. Tried to think of you all to-day and tried to bring things to mind that baby did and how he looked to my mind but I've thought of you all so much both of the past and the future that my mind is exhausted. All I can say over and over in my mind is home, home, oh when will we be back.
